E: Admission Requirements & Consideration

Satisfying the standards for candidacy does not guarantee admission to the program. The number of students admitted to the nursing program is limited to ensure quality didactic and clinical learning experiences for students, therefore potentially not all qualified applicants will be admitted. Every application is reviewed and considered, and nursing does utilize an alternate list.

To ensure objective, fair, and equal access to the nursing program admission, a points system is used to rank candidates. Applications are scored based on, but not limited to, GPA (Program and Grad Retention), Required Related Work course grades, course attempts, ECU Residency and completed college credits, prior degrees, relative experience, licensures and certifications, and correct completion of the nursing application.

To be considered a candidate for admission, the following is required:

- Have graduated from an OK LPN Program
- Meet all nursing deadlines and material requirements; following the process as instructed
- Meet ECU Admission requirements and be accepted to ECU by the nursing deadlines
- Provide all college/university transcripts, to include your LPN Program transcript showing successful completion
- Have a valid, unencumbered OK/MSL LPN license prior to starting the program
- Upon admission to the nursing program, you are expected to complete/maintain all remaining requirements related to the program, clinical, attestations, and accreditation, to include attending the mandatory cohort orientation. Failure to complete/maintain and/all requirements may result in a withdraw of acceptance and/or dismissal from the program.
- Ged Ed & nursing required related work courses taken prior to starting the program, in which a “D” has been earned will be accepted. Upon acceptance, all additional required gen eds & related work must be passed with a grade of “C” or higher.

Vaccination Statement

The clinical facilities that have agreed to provide experiential education within the ECU School of Nursing program curriculum require designated vaccinations to participate in clinical and/or instruction at their facility. ECU SoN has no authority to waive the clinical sites vaccinations requirements. The clinical facilities are also responsible for the evaluation and administration of requests for exemptions to their respective vaccination requirements, which may vary among clinical facilities. Due to these facility vaccination requirements, unvaccinated students may not be able to satisfy a required component of the curriculum and therefore may be unable to complete the nursing program. Any student wishing to be exempt must contact the Clinical Coordinator, or in their absence, the Director. They will also be responsible for contacting their assigned clinical facility(ies) for the waiver process. Copies of any approved waivers must be submitted to the SoN, and the student will be required to sign a disclaimer acknowledging understanding.
